WARD'S SCHEME TO AID REVENUE FUND APPROVED

Sen. Grant Ward's bill providing for redemption of sales tax stamps at 3 percent of their face value and designed to tighten sales tax collections moved a step nearer enactment Wednesday when the senate judiciary committee unanimously recommended its passage. Ward represents Pickaway and Franklin counties.

It will be placed on the calendar for a vote in the senate at the discretion of the rules committee. Estimates of additional revenue the measure would bring by inducing consumers to demand their sales tax stamps of vendors range from three to six million dollars a year, with the administrative cost set at one million dollars.

Auto Crash Injury Kills Cummings, Famous Racer

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 8.—William C. (Wild Bill) Cummings, 32 year old Indianapolis race driver, who was injured Monday night in an automobile accident, died early today at Methodist hospital.

The popular young sportsman, winner of the Memorial Day 500-mile race in 1934, died at 6 o'clock this morning.

Death came little more than 12 hours after surgeons had performed an operation to relieve a brain concussion which he had received in the accident.

Cummings never regained consciousness following the accident and his condition was so critical at the time of the operation that surgeons had held only slight hope for his recovery.

To race fans Cummings' death was ironical because he had never been seriously injured in many years of competition at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, despite the terrific speeds of more than 100 miles an hour in 500 mile races.

He was injured Monday night when his automobile crashed into the guard rail of a bridge near his home and plunged down a 20-foot embankment. The car turned over several times and came to rest in the creek.

Three passersby who heard the crash but did not see it found Cummings face down in knee-deep water. He was driving alone.

Throughout the day yesterday telegrams came to the noted race driver from all parts of the world. Mrs. Cummings had remained near her husband. Concerned over his condition, she was steadied by the fact that she had come to expect tragedy because of many years' close association with the dangers of his racing career.

BRITISH REPORT OF CZECH LAND RETURN DENIED

LONDON, Feb. 8.—In an article promptly denied by Berlin, the London magazine News Review today reported that Nazi Germany is seriously considering handing the Sudetenland, won by the outright threat of war only last September, back to Czechoslovakia.

German official sources characterized the story as "absolute bunk," but the News Review's article, coming on the heels of similar hints in the British press, attracted great interest in London. Quoting supposedly well-informed sources in Prague, the magazine declared that economics alone were responsible for the suggestion that the Sudetens, who were wrested from Czechoslovakia in the dark crisis of last Autumn, have proved a heavy financial burden on the Reich.

The Sudetens, it was said, need imported foodstuffs from abroad and produce little else than highly industrialized products of (Continued on Page Two)

COLUMBUS, Feb. 8.—Senate investigation of alleged subversive activities at Ohio State university will be recommended by the senate rules committee this week with the possibility it may be extended over a wide front, Majority Leader Frank E. Whittemore (R-Akron) said today.

Urged by the American Legion, which charged that Communist and Marxist meetings were being held at O. S. U., the committee may insert an amendment in a resolution of Sen. Robert A. Pollock (R-Canton) broadening the probe to include all state universities and several state-supported institutions.

"The resolution would have been recommended for passage yesterday," Pollock said, "but the Franklin county council of the Legion requested broadening of the investigation. Whether such an amendment is inserted or not, the resolution will go to the senate floor for a vote."

Whittemore said it probably would not leave the rules committee before Thursday.

Labor Secretary Appears Before Secret Hearing Of Judiciary Board

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—The first woman to sit in a president's cabinet — grave-mannered Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins — defended her official conduct today at a secret hearing of the house judiciary committee.

The secretary appeared before the committee to answer charges brought in impeachment proceedings instituted by Rep. J. Parnell Thomas, a Republican of New Jersey. She was prepared to testify publicly.

After a brief discussion among committee members, however, it was decided to hear Miss Perkins in executive session.

Accompanied by Gerard D. Reilly, solicitor of the Department of Labor, Miss Perkins was kept waiting for ten minutes in the office of Chairman Sumners (D) Texas while the committee made its decision on whether to hold an open hearing.

Dressed as somberly as usual with an accustomed tricorn hat to top off her ensemble, the secretary talked in low tone with Reilly and glanced hurriedly over a prepared statement.

Just before going into the committee room, she was asked to pose for newsreel cameramen.

As Miss Perkins finally opened her defense against the effort of Thomas to remove her from office by the method of impeachment, she said:

"I appreciate the opportunity of appearing before this committee. I am conscious of the judicial atmosphere in which the committee seeks to meet its responsibility to the congress and to the country. I am not a lawyer."

Chicago Expects Reading At Zero During Night; West Coast Hit

By International News Service

A wave of bitter cold spread across the Midwest today checking threats of a major flood in the lower Ohio river valley, but burdening thousands of families along swollen side streams with greater hardship.

The Red Cross and health authorities in dozens of sections were already fighting the peril of disease epidemics breaking out among the refugees.

The high waters still barred hundreds from returning to their inundated homes in the lowlands or left houses uninhabitable as it receded and with the onslaught of colder weather shelter became an acute problem.

Freezing temperatures, however, relieved anxious residents along the lower reaches of the Ohio and were expected to bring the river to its flood crest even sooner than predicted.

The cold wave swept down from the Canadian Northwest and was shunted eastward by the Rockies yesterday. At Havre, Mont. the mercury plunged to 20 degrees below zero and only slightly higher readings were recorded in northern Colorado, Wyoming and North Dakota.

Zero in Chicago

The icy front stretched from Missouri to the Canadian border as it bore eastward. It was considered likely that the zero mark would be touched in Chicago for the first time in three winters.

Auto Crash Injury Kills Cummings, Famous Racer

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 8—William C. (Wild Bill) Cummings, 32 year old Indianapolis race driver, who was injured Monday night in an automobile accident, died early today at Methodist hospital.

The popular young sportsman, winner of the Memorial Day 500-mile race in 1934, died at 6 o'clock this morning.

Death came little more than 12 hours after surgeons had performed an operation to relieve a brain concussion which he had received in the accident.

Cummings never regained consciousness following the accident and his condition was so critical at the time of the operation that surgeons had held only slight hope for his recovery.

To race fans Cummings' death was ironical because he had never been seriously injured in many years of competition at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, despite the terrific speeds of more than 100 miles an hour in 500 mile races.

He was injured Monday night when his automobile crashed into the guard rail of a bridge near his home and plunged down a 20-foot embankment. The car turned over several times and came to rest in the creek.

Three passersby who heard the crash but did not see it found Cummings face down in knee-deep water. He was driving alone.

Throughout the day yesterday telegrams came to the noted race driver from all parts of the world. Mrs. Cummings had remained near her husband. Concerned over his condition, she was steadiest by the fact that she had come to expect tragedy because of many years' close association with the dangers of his racing career.

Today Roger Gibbons, Grand theatre candid cameraman, was busy "shooting" hundreds of Circleville persons with his movie camera for the motion picture production "Life in Circleville" to be presented at the Grand theatre, Feb. 15 and 16.

Among some of the interesting "shots" taken were candid flashes of Circleville high school pupils as they passed by the camera lens at school. Tonight at the home of Howard Orr, Gibbons goes to, a "Stooge Club" meeting. All members of this club are going to be photographed and many of the high school's leading boys will pass their first Hollywood screen test.

The Herald's staff was caught unexpectedly today, employees to be included in the movie.

Among other "location" pictures taken Wednesday were those at the Crist Department store. Many familiar faces of shoppers will be seen on the silver screen.

The pictures got under way with the filming of Mayor W. B. Cady and his group of city officers. The mayor took an excellent picture and filled his "role" well.

These are just a few of the many scenes and faces that will be seen in this gala movie hit "Life in Circleville."

HIGH WATER TO SUBSIDE

Chicago Expects Reading At Zero During Night; West Coast Hit

By International News Service
A wave of bitter cold spread across the Middle West today checking threats of a major flood in the lower Ohio river valley, but burdening thousands of families along swollen side streams with greater hardship.

The Red Cross and health authorities in dozens of sections were already fighting the peril of disease epidemics breaking out among the refugees.

The high waters still barred hundreds from returning to their inundated homes in the lowlands or left houses uninhabitable as it receded and with the onslaught of colder weather shelter became an acute problem.

Freezing temperatures, however, relieved anxious residents along the lower reaches of the Ohio and were expected to bring the river to its flood crest even sooner than predicted.

The cold-wave swept down from the Canadian Northwest and was shifted eastward by the Rockies yesterday. At Havre, Mont. the mercury plunged to 20 degrees below zero and only slightly higher readings were recorded in northern Colorado, Wyoming and North Dakota.

Zero in Chicago

The icy front stretched from Missouri to the Canadian border as it bore eastward. It was considered likely that the zero mark would be touched in Chicago for the first time in three winters.

Denver Leasure, 23, of Chillicothe Route 6, remembered in Pickaway county as one of five brothers whose car was involved in the auto crash on Route 56 in which Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Crawford, of Whisler, were killed last May 9, is under arrest in Chillicothe on two charges of auto theft.

It is alleged that Leasure stole the auto of Louis Silverman in Chillicothe, Tuesday night, and drove it to Adelphi where he stopped at a restaurant. He is said to have abandoned the Silverman car in Adelphi. Later the highway patrol charges, he took the auto of Russell Scott, Lancaster, parked in Adelphi. The state patrol said the Scott car was involved in an accident on Route 180 when Leasure was driving toward Hallsville. Leasure was arrested when the patrol investigated the accident.

Leasure was fined $100 and costs on an intoxication charge in Pickaway county in connection with the accident on Route 56. His brother, Beeman, driver of the car, was sentenced to one to 20 years in the penitentiary on a manslaughter charge.

U. S. Fixes Terms For Recognition

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—The United States will decline to recognize the Franco regime in Spain so long as Italian troops and German bombing squadrons remain in occupation of Spanish soil, International News Service was informed today on high authority. Eventual recognition of a victorious insurgent government is deemed virtually certain, however. Blackerby, assistant state health board director of Kentucky who assigned a large staff of nurses and doctors to the danger areas with enough anti-toxin for 250,000 persons.

Dr. E. R. Coffey of the U. S. Public Health service was sent from Washington to Louisville to assist in the work at the request of Dr. A. T. McCormack, director of the state health board.

There was no danger to the city itself, which was devastated in the 1937 flood, but residents in other Kentucky river communities were hard pressed. Water supply systems in several towns had been disabled and warnings were posted to boil all drinking water to prevent any spread of typhoid.

Until the cold advanced the Ohio was expected to continue a gradual rise into the flood stage from Louisville to the Mississippi until the week-end.

Families Flee Area While wide areas of farmlands were due to be inundated, the river's upsurge has been so gradual that families in danger zones have had ample opportunity to prepare for trouble.

The ferry across the Ohio at Shawneetown, Ill. suspended operations yesterday, but the town which was engulfed in 1937 remained safe on its new site on a bluff above the stream.

On the Pacific coast colder temperatures and continuation of storms were predicted today, as transcontinental auto traffic was fought nearly to a standstill by heavy blizzards pounding all higher elevations of the Cascade and Sierra Nevada mountains.

For lower elevations the weather bureau predicted more rains along the coast generally.

Thus far the three-day storm has brought some damage, mostly in the Pacific Northwest, but no loss of life. Fears for nine persons aboard the Pilchard seiner Sonny Boy which vanished during a gale off the Oregon coast were allayed when the vessel was reported safe in the Strait of Juan De Fuca.

Oregon bore the brunt of the storm. A score of persons was reported marooned by deep snow drifts at Crater Lake. They were in no danger and were fully supplied with food, however.

"There is no question that such a committee would have plenty of funds to work with," he added. "but we would start first with funds appropriated to legislative committees. If we need more we can get it."

Pollock said that members of the American Legion who have lodged charges that un-American doctrines have become a part of O. S. U. activities would be called before the committee to present evidence.

"If the evidence bore out their contentions the investigation would continue on a large scale," Pollock said.

If the probe were extended to other state universities it would include Miami, Ohio, Bowling Green and Kent State, in addition to Ohio State.

Desirous of expediting passage of the tax commission "ripper" bill, administration leaders were completing draft of a bill which would establish a three-member board of review at salaries of $5,000 and a tax commissioner at $7,500.

Tax Ripper Ready

The measure, which will abolish the present tax commission and instead of providing jobs for 15 deputy commissioners, would cut deputy jobs to five, will be ready for introduction this afternoon or tomorrow, Whittemore said.

In order that the commission docket would not be jammed with appeals from rulings, the new act would allow counties to take their appeals directly to Common Pleas courts, he added.

The lone tax commissioner would serve a five-year term, board members would be appointed for six years.

Importance of the measure's early passage was stressed by senate and house leaders, who said that thousands of dollars are being lost to the state every day because of laxity in enforcing the sales tax law.

Gov. John W. Bricker spiked reports that drafting of a Civil Service Commission reorganization bill would be abandoned.

He said that although the measure may not be introduced before the bill introduction deadline next Monday it will reach the legislative hopper sometime during the present session. After Monday it will have to be offered under suspension of the rules.

A bill which would regulate distribution of a tax on the sale of auto license tags met with opposition in the senate highways committee from a powerful lobby representing the Ohio Good Roads Federation, the Ohio State Automobile Association and the Petroleum Industry of Ohio.

Some members of the committee, it was learned, urged that Miss Perkins be heard in public on the ground that Rep. Thomas obtained such wide publicity when he rose in the house on the constitutional ground of impeachment and then called for an investigation.

Since the committee has heard other witnesses in secret, however, it decided to make no exception in the case of Miss Perkins.

The secretary, committee members said, entered a sweeping denial to charges of Thomas that she had failed to do her duty in the deportation case against Harry Bridges, in the Strecker deportation case and in general administration of laws affecting aliens.

retary of the Petroleum Industry of Ohio, contended there is nothing in it that earmarks funds for such purposes. He said it would provide city councils with "easy money" to spend on policemen's salaries or anything else that might be charged to traffic.

Whittemore told the committee that the act would not provide for payment of any expense of government not brought about directly by automobiles.

Sen. D. A. Liggitt (R-Belle Center) author of the bill, explained that 25 percent of the tax would go to municipalities with the taxing authority having permission to use the revenue for police purposes.

Part of the funds would be used to construction of highways, bridges and viaducts. Previously they have been used for maintenance and repair, he said.

Without a dissenting vote, the house passed and sent to the senate the McGregor emergency bill appropriating $12,600,000 from the general revenue fund for public schools to pay teachers and the teachers retirement benefits for January, February and March. The vote was 125 to 0.

Hundreds Forced Out Of Homes To Suffer From Low Temperatures

of spinal meningitis, several of typhoid fever and the threat of pneumonia brought emergency action by Dr. P. E. Blackerby, assistant state health board director of Kentucky who assigned a large staff of nurses and doctors to the danger areas with enough anti-toxin for 250,000 persons.

Dr. E. R. Coffey of the U. S. Public Health service was sent from Washington to Louisville to assist in the work at the request of Dr. A. T. McCormack, director of the state health board.

There was no danger to the city itself, which was devastated in the 1937 flood, but residents in other Kentucky river communities were hard pressed. Water supply systems in several towns had been disabled and warnings were posted to boil all drinking water to prevent any spread of typhoid.

Until the cold advanced the Ohio was expected to continue a gradual rise into the flood stage from Louisville to the Mississippi until the week-end.

Families Flee Area

While wide areas of farmlands were due to be inundated, the river's upsurge has been so gradual that families in danger zones have had ample opportunity to prepare for trouble.

The ferry across the Ohio at Shawneetown, Ill. suspended operations yesterday, but the town which was engulfed in 1937 remained safe on its new site on a bluff above the stream.

On the Pacific coast colder temperatures and continuation of storms were predicted today, as transcontinental auto traffic was fought nearly to a standstill by heavy blizzards pounding all higher elevations of the Cascade and Sierra Nevada mountains.

For lower elevations the weather bureau predicted more rains along the coast generally.

Thus far the three-day storm has brought some damage, mostly in the Pacific Northwest, but no loss of life. Pears for nine persons aboard the Pilchard seiner Sonny Boy which vanished during a gale off the Oregon coast were allayed when the vessel was reported safe in the Strait of Juan De Fuca.

Oregon bore the brunt of the storm. A score of persons was reported marooned by deep snow drifts at Crater Lake. They were in no danger and were fully supplied with food, however.

NEW MEXICO'S W. P. A. TRIAL NEARING CLOSE

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Feb. 8.—Attorneys began their final arguments today in the federal court trial of 25 men and women accused of a criminal conspiracy to divert New Mexico's W. P. A. to political use.

The defense rested its case unexpectedly yesterday after using less than half of the 121 witnesses it had subpoenaed.

At conclusion of the defense case, the government introduced rebuttal testimony designed to establish that one of the principal defendants, Stanley W. P. Miller, former assistant U. S. district attorney and a son-in-law of U. S. Senator Dennis Chavez, actually proposed to W. P. A. supervisory employees that they trade W.P.A. jobs for votes and political support for various issues and candidates.

The trick was accomplished by the recent mass operation on the Dionne tonsils and adenoids, it was revealed by Dr. Allan Daeoe today.

"The operation did away with the snoring which used to keep Marie's four sisters awake," Dr. Daeoe said. "And they haven't had a cold all Winter although the temperature has been 10 below."

SENATE MOVES TOWARD PROBE OF UNIVERSITIES

Appeal Of American Legion For Investigation At O.S.U. Gains Support

mittee, Pollock declared, that the investigating group of five senators assume the proportions of a "little Dies committee" which would look into all charges of Communism, Marxism and other un-American activities.

"There is no question that such a committee would have plenty of funds to work with," he added, "but we would start first with funds appropriated to legislative committees. If we need more we can get it."

Pollock said that members of the American Legion who have lodged charges that un-American doctrines have become a part of O. S. U. activities would be called before the committee to present evidence.

"If the evidence bore out their contentions the investigation would continue on a large scale," Pollock said.

If the probe were extended to other state universities it would include Miami, Ohio, Bowling Green and Kent State, in addition to Ohio State.

Desirous of expediting passage of the tax commission "ripper" bill, administration leaders were completing draft of a bill which would establish a three-member board of review at salaries of $5,000 and a tax commissioner at $7,500.

Tax Ripper Ready

The measure, which will abolish the present tax commission and instead of providing jobs for 15 deputy commissioners, would cut deputy jobs to five, will be ready for introduction this afternoon or tomorrow, Whittemore said.

In order that the commission docket would not be jammed with appeals from rulings, the new act would allow counties to take their appeals directly to Common Pleas courts, he added.

The lone tax commissioner would serve a five-year term, board members would be appointed for six years.

Importance of the measure's early passage was stressed by senate and house leaders, who said that thousands of dollars are being lost to the state every day because of laxity in enforcing the sales tax law.

Gov. John W. Bricker spiked reports that drafting of a Civil Service Commission reorganization bill would be abandoned.

He said that although the measure may not be introduced before the bill introduction deadline next Monday it will reach the legislative hopper sometime during the present session. After Monday it will have to be offered under suspension of the rules.

A bill which would regulate distribution of a tax on the sale of auto license tags met with opposition in the senate highways committee from a powerful lobby representing the Ohio Good Roads Federation, the Ohio State Automobile Association and the Petroleum Industry of Ohio.

Earmarking Demanded

Although the bill ostensibly would provide cities with relief matching money, Jack Marsh, sec-

which the Reich has no need. The situation, the magazine said, has been complicated by refusal of certain foreign countries to buy Sudeten-produced goods on the grounds they are considered German products.

News Review also cited that what remains of Czechoslovakia contains a predominately Slav population, a factor of possible detriment to German interests in the future. By returning the Sudetenland, the proportion of German inhabitants would be vastly increased and the strength of German influence thereby enhanced.

PERKINS FIGHTS OUSTER CHARGE

Miss Perkins from proceeding with her statement.

Some members of the committee, it was learned, urged that Miss Perkins be heard in public on the ground that Rep. Thomas obtained such wide publicity when he rose in the house on the constitutional ground of impeachment and then called for an investigation.

Since the committee has heard other witnesses in secret, however, it decided to make no exception in the case of Miss Perkins.

The secretary, committee members said, entered a sweeping denial to charges of Thomas that she had failed to do her duty in the deportation case against Harry Bridges, in the Strecker deportation case and in general administration of laws affecting aliens.

retary of the Petroleum Industry of Ohio, contended there is nothing in it that earmarks funds for such purposes. He said it would provide city councils with "easy money" to spend on policemen's salaries or anything else that might be charged to traffic.

Whittemore told the committee that the act would not provide for payment of any expense of government not brought about directly by automobiles.

Sen. D. A. Liggitt (R-Belle Center) author of the bill, explained that 25 percent of the tax would go to municipalities with the taxing authority having permission to use the revenue for police purposes.

Part of the funds would be used to construction of highways, bridges and viaducts. Previously they have been used for maintenance and repair, he said.

Without a dissenting vote, the house passed and sent to the senate the McGregor emergency bill appropriating $12,600,000 from the general revenue fund for public schools to pay teachers and the teachers retirement benefits for January, February and March. The vote was 125 to 0.

SOCIAL WORKER CITES NEED FOR BETTER HOMES

Clara Southward In Annual
Report At Benevolent
Society Session

MISS DUNTON ELECTED

Mrs. B. T. Hedges Completes
Five Years Of Service
As President

"What we need in Circleville more than anything else is a new supply of houses, decent three or four room houses, at a reasonable rent. Better houses, cleaner homes for the poor, will mean better health and greater happiness for all of us."

This report was made to the Circleville Benevolent association Tuesday afternoon by Miss Clara P. Southward, social worker. Her report covered social work for the year ending Feb. 1.

"As I look at the figures representing the work of the last year and note the increase from the previous year in the number of families assisted and the amounts given, I rejoice that the association has been able to do so much, and then I think of the many needs that had to be denied because of our limited resources and wonder if the time will ever come when needs are fewer and our ability to meet them more adequate," Miss Southward said.

2,869 Visits Made

During the year Miss Southward made a total of 2,869 visits to and in behalf of clients. The social worker spends a part of her time with the county relief administration, so both are included when counting interviews and calls made. Interviews with clients totaled 2,464, interviews in behalf of clients 463, visits to homes of clients 2,535 and visits in behalf of clients 334.

Miss Southward reported that the society is indebted to 127 individuals who donated food, clothing and other supplies and to the numerous organizations for contributions.

A large amount of bread and buns were distributed. During the year 197 pairs of shoes, 1,584 articles of clothing and 799 miscellaneous articles including bedding, curtains, dishes and various household supplies were distributed. A total of 278 families was assisted, some of them many times with food or clothing, or both. Twenty-one families had the benefit of milk daily for varied periods from two to twelve months, according to their special needs.

Miss Florence Dunton, S. Court street, was elected president of the society succeeding Mrs. B. T. Hedges. Mrs. Hedges had served as president for five years. Mrs. W. T. Ulm was reelected vice president, and Miss Catherine Smith, secretary. Mrs. Clark Will was elected treasurer replacing Miss Marvin Howard.

Mrs. C. E. Groce read the report of the nominating committee in the absence of Mrs. C. G. Stewart, chairman of the committee. Third member of the committee was Mrs. James I. Smith, Sr.

Ten members were present for the meeting. In addition to the report of the social worker, annual reports of the secretary and treasurer were given.

Plans were discussed for an executive board. No action was taken. The matter will be considered further at later meetings.

Sunshine Brings Much Activity in Ashville

By S. D. Fridley
Phone, Ashville, 79

The mild atmosphere and bright sunshine puts the pep and motion right into a bunch of the grumpies. Plenty of move about the cement block plant with a couple of loads moving out for a new foundation somewhere; more talk in a fresh spot about a couple more dwellings; The waterworks Superintendent looking around to find workers to put in a line of water pipe for an installation for Eddie Erwin on the East side; Frank Grice got bit, he said, by the Spring bug and was building a hot bed; Roger Hedges sending a half bushel of his good seed corn to the experiment station at Washington D. C., and big news went around about another grocery to open up for business now soon, and a couple of members of the supreme whose home is at the county seat was here to get advice on some important matter. So, in all, Tuesday actually was a busy day for Ashville.

And another important item that made us know for sure that Spring was not far around the corner, Postmaster Smith received the first lot of chicks shipped from some point in the Hoosier state. There were 400 of them and labeled Rhode Island Whites and for Mrs. Dan Runkle on Route Two.

And happening in at headquarters found several members of the court from the farm getting information about the right sign for clover seed sowing. Sign down and not in the posy if any seed is to be harvested, they agreed after much argument. Recall that our good friends, the late Frank and Milton Peters, said a number of times in our presence that they never missed getting a good stand of clover by seeding twice—months of February and April. And more and better grapes are harvested by trimming the vines during this month.

The Ashville and South Bloomfield grade school youngsters (boys) are to have what they call a "hot game" of basketball Thursday evening at the school auditorium. And anyone may see all this fun for only five cents, they told us. "And we're not intending to let this thing of being county champions stop with this year's winning and us boys have the stuff to keep right on going", one of the team captains told us yesterday.

Colonel Bumgarner and wife were here Tuesday from down the county somewhere distributing bills for sales he will have in the near future. Said there are quite a few sales to be held in the next few weeks and some of them large as we noticed by bills he had with him.

Miss Eva Payne, whose funeral was held at Chillicothe with burial at Reber Hill, was a long time resident of Ashville, the Payne home being that now owned by Mrs. Minnie Snyder. The postoffice building was placed in its present location by the Paynes.

The county library truck was here Tuesday and did its usual good business. Many readers who never read before this library service began are on the regular list now.

Low Cost Leader of a GREAT Line of FORDS...

IN materials, design, and workmanship, the quality of a Ford car is high quality. Ford prices are low because of the institution behind the car, not because of what is in the car!

The 1939 Ford V-8 delivers at the lowest prices in the Ford line—at lower prices than last year's Ford V-8. Yet it is bigger than before—in actual passenger room and in luggage space. It is better-looking—in outside appearance and interior appointments. It is better-riding—with new seat cushion construction combined with Ford transverse springs and double-acting shock absorbers to give triple-cushioned comfort.

It is a dependable car, a safe car—and a car that's fun to drive. 60 horsepower or 85, its performance is V-8 performance—with more than 5 million Ford V-8 cars behind it. Its brakes are now hydraulic—big, easy-acting, and Ford-tested for dependability.

All through this 1939 Ford V-8 you will find new evidence of Ford ability to put more quality into the car so that Ford owners may get more pleasure from it at no extra cost.

SOCIAL WORKER CITES NEED FOR BETTER HOMES

Clara Southward In Annual
Report At Benevolent
Society Session

MISS DUNTON ELECTED

Mrs. B. T. Hedges Completes
Five Years Of Service
As President

"What we need in Circleville more than anything else is a new supply of houses, decent three or four room houses, at a reasonable rent. Better houses, cleaner homes for the poor, will mean better health and greater happiness for all of us."

This report was made to the Circleville Benevolent association Tuesday afternoon by Miss Clara P. Southward, social worker. Her report covered social work for the year ending Feb. 1.

"As I look at the figures representing the work of the last year and note the increase from the previous year in the number of families assisted and the amounts given, I rejoice that the association has been able to do so much, and then I think of the many needs that had to be denied because of our limited resources and wonder if the time will ever come when needs are fewer and our ability to meet them more adequate," Miss Southward said.

2,869 Visits Made

During the year Miss Southward made a total of 2,869 visits to and in behalf of clients. The social worker spends a part of her time with the county relief administration, so both are included when counting interviews and calls made. Interviews with clients totalled 2,464, interviews in behalf of clients 463, visits to homes of clients 2,535 and visits in behalf of clients 334.

Miss Southward reported that the society is indebted to 127 individuals who donated food, clothing and other supplies and to the numerous organizations for contributions.

A large amount of bread and buns were distributed. During the year 197 pairs of shoes, 1,584 articles of clothing and 799 miscellaneous articles including bedding, curtains, dishes and various household supplies were distributed. A total of 278 families was assisted, some of them many times with food or clothing, or both. Twenty-one families had the benefit of milk daily for varied periods from two to twelve months, according to their special needs.

Miss Florence Dunton, S. Court street, was elected president of the society succeeding Mrs. B. T. Hedges. Mrs. Hedges had served as president for five years. Mrs. W. T. Ulm was reelected vice president, and Miss Catherine Smith, secretary. Mrs. Clark Will was elected treasurer replacing Miss Marjorie Howard.

Mrs. C. E. Groce read the report of the nominating committee in the absence of Mrs. C. G. Stewart, chairman of the committee. Third member of the committee was Mrs. James I. Smith, Sr.

Ten members were present for the meeting. In addition to the report of the social worker, annual reports of the secretary and treasurer were given.

Plans were discussed for an executive board. No action was taken. The matter will be considered further at later meetings.

Sunshine Brings Much Activity in Ashville

By S. D. Fridley
Phone, Ashville, 79

The mild atmosphere and bright sunshine puts the pep and motion right into a bunch of the grumpies. Plenty of move about the cement block plant with a couple of loads moving out for a new foundation somewhere; more talk in a fresh spot about a couple more dwellings; The waterworks Superintendent looking around to find workers to put in a line of water pipe for an installation for Eddie Erwin on the East side; Frank Grice got bit, he said, by the Spring bug and was building a hot bed; Roger Hedges sending a half bushel of his good seed corn to the experiment station at Washington D. C., and big news went around about another grocery to open up for business soon, and a couple of members of the supreme whose home is at the county seat was here to get advice on some important matter. So, in all, Tuesday actually was a busy for Ashville.

And another important item that made us know for sure that Spring was not far around the corner, Postmaster Smith received the first lot of chicks shipped from some point in the Hoosier state. There were 400 of them and labeled Rhode Island Whites and for Mrs. Dan Runkle on Route Two.

And happening in at headquarters found several members of the court from the farm getting information about the right sign for clover seed sowing. Sign down and not in the pose if any seed is to be harvested, they agreed after much argument. Recall that our good friends, the late Frank and Milton Peters, said a number of times in our presence that they never missed getting a good stand of clover by seeding twice—months of February and April. And more and better grapes are harvested by trimming the vines during this month.

The Ashville and South Bloomfield grade school youngsters (boys) are to have what they call a "hot game" of basketball Thursday evening at the school auditorium. And anyone may see all this fun for only five cents, they told us. "And we're not intending to let this thing of being county champions stop with this year's winning and us boys have the stuff to keep right on going", one of the team captains told us yesterday.

Colonel Bumgarner and wife were here Tuesday from down the county somewhere distributing bills for sales he will have in the near future. Said there are quite a few sales to be held in the next few weeks and some of them large as we noticed by bills he had with him.

Miss Eva Payne, whose funeral was held at Chillicothe with burial at Reber Hill, was a long time resident of Ashville, the Payne home being that now owned by Mrs. Minnie Snyder. The postoffice building was placed in its present location by the Paynes.

The county library truck was here Tuesday and did its usual good business. Many readers who never read before this library service began are on the regular list now.

WARPLANES

IF the United States government were making and selling warplanes to France, that would be obviously improper and dangerous and should be stopped. It would tend to drag us into war.

When private industry is making and selling warplanes to France or any other friendly country that will not use them against our people or our national interests, it is hard to see that such action is improper or unwise. There is no law against it, national or international. And Americans who approve such action have two things to say in favor of it:

First, that it develops the American airplane industry, in a perilous time, to a point where it may soon supply our own government with all the modern military aircraft we may need.

Second, that it helps in a legitimate way to put free, friendly nations on a footing where they can protect themselves against possible aggression, and thus indirectly protect us.

Such private manufacture of war equipment for the foreign market would not be carried on, of course, without government permission. There has to be discretion used there. Obviously we do not want our government to sanction the private sale of war equipment to a nation that uses it against our national interests. For this reason our government stopped sanctioning the sale of warplanes to Japan, but continued sanctioning the sale of such equipment to China.

Most Americans believe today that it is to our interest to have France able to defend itself in the air.

PATRON OF MATRIMONY

WITH somewhat mixed feelings Americans read of the new Nazi wedding rules.

Every ceremony must be performed in front of a bust or portrait of the Fuehrer. The room must be adorned with the Swastika flag, the Reich seal, and flowers, and the presiding official must wear a brown robe trimmed with velvet.

The bride and groom must receive a copy of Hitler's "Mein Kampf", a pamphlet of advice to mothers and a year's subscription to a Nazi newspaper.

The dominant item in this matrimonial scene is the presence, by proxy, of Adolf Hitler, the celibate.

This is the age of "plastics". Nearly everything's going to be plastic except prices.

Some progressive citizens speak of Calvin Coolidge as a horse-and-buggy president. That isn't true. Cal rode a mechanical horse.

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN.

ROOSEVELT LED INTO TRAP

WASHINGTON—In order to get full perspective regarding Roosevelt's recent press conference on international policy, it is necessary to go back to his message to Congress of January 4 and its effect on the Fascist-Nazi nations of Europe.

In Berlin and Rome that speech fell like a pall. German and Italian officials went around in a blue funk. To them the Roosevelt message to Congress meant that the United States would supply material to France and Britain in case of war.

That was exactly the reaction Roosevelt intended. For, beginning around Christmas, he had become convinced that war was sure to break in Europe this Spring and that there was only one possible chance of heading it off, namely by indicating to the Rome-Berlin axis that it would have to reckon with the raw material and munitions strength of the United States.

Roosevelt's idea, in other words, was that nations make war only when they can see immediate victory. With a long drawn out war in sight they think twice.

Today military strategists admit that any immediate European war would result in victory for Italy and German unless their opponents could get the material support of the United States, in which case the conflict probably would settle down to a long stalemate. Roosevelt's chief aim, therefore, has been to try to head off war by making the risk too great for Hitler and Mussolini.

NAZI PRESS

Immediate effects after January 4th appeared to be good. Rome and Berlin both were scared. Then the Nazi-Fascist controlled press got to work. They played up the anti-Semitic angle, claimed that Roosevelt had become the tool of Jewish bankers in New York, was pitching the USA into war at the behest of the Jews. Naturally the Nazis knew these reports would be cabled back to the American press.

Nazi papers headlined all the speeches of Representative Ham Fish, also of Senator Reynolds of North Carolina, who visited Berlin last summer. These eminent statesmen were played up to the German people as representative of the great American masses; Roosevelt as the tyrant. Later Senators Clark, Nye and Hiram Johnson became the great heroes of the Nazi-Fascist papers. This press play was partly for the purpose of making the German and Italian people believe they had nothing to worry about from the United States, partly for the effect upon the American public through reprints in the American press.

ROOSEVELT TRAPPED

Anyway, it had its effect. Shrewd Nazi maneuvering, plus senatorial fireworks, plus Roosevelt impulsiveness, led the President into the trap.

He has now put himself into the position of appearing to have contradicted himself on American foreign policy within one month. On January 4 he indicated that the United States would give material help to European democracies; on February 3 he said the United States had entered no alliances.

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE . . Hour by Hour

PAGES from the Diary of An Antiquated Reporter:

Up with a cough, but had been expecting it for almost everyone else has one. Gloria Jane has been in bed three days due to the flu and worried more than a little about missing school until I told her that most of her close friends also are ill. Something like this would happen just at a time when I had hoisted my algebra a full grade.

Downtown and to the post, there to find a full box of communications, two of which advised against accepting advertising offered by accounts in distant places, and the others begging for free publicity. I wonder how long it will be, if ever, before folk realize that there is no more sense in a publisher giving away his newspaper space than there is in any other merchant giving away his merchandise? In one mail alone I received 27 requests for gifts of space to promote merchandise or events planned for the purpose of making money for others. Maybe most folk think that editors shouldn't live. Well, maybe they are right. Sometimes I also think so.

There goes Eddie Rothman, the merchant, who stays so close to his fine store that I see him only infrequently. And there goes Ralph Curtin whose ice business boom season is not so far away. Chatted with H. W. Plum and bowed in fine friendliness to C. A. Weldon, the barber, and his ever-accompanying dog.

Read with pleasure that the county basketball tournament is to be played in the city where it should be played. To the business men of the city a fine bouquet for ironing out that little difficulty.

Spent the afternoon receiving instruction from an expert on operation of a new piece of machinery added to the composing room and then wiped off the grease and attended the annual Chamber of Commerce dinner. One sometimes wonders what a Chamber of Commerce accomplishes unless he attends the annual meetings where all the work of the year is outlined. And there is a lot of it. I have little patience with the critics who do nothing to help along the one organization that has for its sole purpose the making of this a better ville.

Saw Ed Wallace lift his mantle of office to the shoulders of Jim Smith, merely a transfer from one good man to another. Ed has done a great job as president and deserves the full thanks of every citizen. He has given ungrudgingly of his time, effort and money in order to help everyone. And anyone who thinks that office in the Chamber of Commerce does not take time just never has held such an office. Jim Smith has been a director of the Chamber of Commerce for several years, is thoroughly familiar with the work and undoubtedly will make a good president. My personal thanks to Ed for what he has done for the city and my personal thanks to Jim for what I know he will do.

DIET AND HEALTH

Possible to Solve Problem of Disease

BY LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

FOUR OR five years ago my friend, Dr. Stuart Pritchard, told me when we met at a medical society meeting that he was going to retire from the active practice of medicine. I deprecated this because he was a brilliant diagnostician in diseases of the lungs, one of the foremost authorities on tuberculosis in the United States.

He replied that he had something bigger in mind. He had, he felt, in his work in life that far only been trying to drain a stagnant lake by taking an eye-dropper full of scummy water from its surface at a time.

Now he had an opportunity to show what a thoroughly planned engineering scheme would do to a stagnant human lake of disease and maladjustment. He said he probably would be criticized by the powers that were for violating certain principles in medical ethics, but he then consigned them to place graciously described by a Signor Dante in a highly-praised little effusion published in the thirteenth century.

Banish Disease

What he was going to do, he said, was to show that disease and human suffering could be banished from the earth; or, at least, to make a more reasonable statement, reduced to a point where they could be discerned only by diligent search. I thought then, to put it mildly, that he was somewhat over-enthusiastic, but it appears he has made good.

What happened was that the W. K. Kellogg Foundation of Battle Creek, Michigan, donated enough money—$46,000,000—to demonstrate in seven counties in Michigan near Battle Creek, with a population of 220,000, that a thorough and well-directed program for medical care could approximate Dr. Pritchard's ideal.

Down Their Throats

Dr. Pritchard went at things in a rather autocratic manner. He just naturally forced health down the throats of that community. But he got results.

He established efficient, non-political health departments. All the children were examined and treated—free, most of the time—for whatever ailed them. The most modern scientific methods of handling the women in childbirth were introduced. All the new-born babies in that community were handled as if they had been the quintuplets; that is, in a thoroughly modern scientific manner.

Dr. Clendenning will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Proper immunization against diphtheria, smallpox, whooping cough, typhoid fever and goiter were instituted.

The conditions of living were made sanitary and doctors of public health took charge of sewerage and insect pests, water supply and other matters.

Schools Rebuilt

The schools were rebuilt or repaired so that they had sanitary toilets, electric lights, more sunshine, attention to the eyes, ears and bodies of the pupils. Most of all, the teachers were renovated, their preparation and education improved.

He must have had plenty of opposition to begin with. But he has finally convinced the hardest bunch of opposition of all—those he was trying to help. In a vote of these counties on the question of whether the people were willing to tax themselves 25 cents apiece to continue the work, they voted "Yes" almost unanimously.

What has been done there can be done all over the country. It proves that we can solve the problem of disease. We may not have made much progress in governing ourselves, or in eliminating the scourge of war, or in leveling human economic inequalities, but the fundamental source of happiness can be controlled.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Seven pamphlets by Dr. Clendenning can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin, for each, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendenning, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Irritations" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

LEAVE THAT DOUBLE IN

YOU REALLY SHOULD take out some business doubts made by your partner. But not, as a rule, if you have a hand which is as good defensively as you have so far shown and he has doubled vulnerable opponents when your side is not vulnerable. In that situation, even if the intervening opponent takes out the double into another suit which you cannot double yourself, it is usually your job to pass and put it up to your partner to double that or else make some bid of his own.

East began the bidding here with 1-Club, South bid 1-Heart and West 1-Spade. That bid would have been all right if South had passed, because then West would have had the responsibility of keeping it open with any hand which might produce game if his partner had almost a two bid. But in this case, South had performed the function of keeping it open, so West should not have made a free bid unless he had something worth while to show.

That 1-Spade call should have been badly penalized. North of course doubled it. When East bid 2-Clubs, South should have passed, to give North a chance to double that. Had he done so, it would have been set much more than a not-vulnerable game was worth.

South erred badly, however. Over the 2-Clubs, he showed his second suit with 2-Diamonds. With the opponents now shaken off the limit onto which they had climbed with West's bad bid, they were pleased to pass thereafter, as North then went to 2-No Trump, South 3-Diamonds and North 3-No Trump, a clinch contract but sad in comparison to the luscious double that had been in sight.

CHAPTER FORTY-SIX
JOHN HENRY HERMAN, the electrician, squirmed uncomfortably on the hard witness chair.
"The afternoon I got a call from the housekeeper at the Manor to come out and fix the three electric driers what was out of order."
Didmore interrupted: "What time did you receive this first call?"
"Around two o'clock."
"Very well. Continue."
"Well, as I was saying, it was Sunday, and I don't usually do no work on Sunday, but the housekeeper said they had to have them driers in shape for Monday morning. And so I said I'd drive out and fix 'em. Well, before I could get started I got another call saying I wasn't to come."
"One moment! Was this second call also from Mrs. Greely?"
John Henry wagged his head: "It was a woman's voice calling. Naturally, I thought it was her again."
"I see," Didmore nodded. "That's all."
He called Mrs. Greely to the stand.
"Now, Mrs. Greely," he said, "you have heard the evidence supplied by Mr. Herman. Do you agree to it?"
"No," returned the housekeeper flatly. "I do not. I made the first call. I know nothing whatever about the second one."
"You did not call Mr. Herman and cancel the arrangement you had previously made with him?"
"I did not."
"And you do not know who made this second call?"
"I do not."
"Is it possible that someone in the house overheard you making the first call?"
"It is possible," she admitted. "The call was put through from the kitchen. The phone there is quite public."
"Who was present in the kitchen at the time of the call?"
"The butler, Mr. Hawkins, and Henrietta, Mrs. Horace's maid."
"I see," said Didmore again, and was about to dismiss the witness when McIntyre beckoned to him. For some seconds they consulted in low whispers. Didmore then returned to the housekeeper.
"Where?" he asked, "is the main or key telephone located at the Manor?"
Mrs. Greely appeared surprised. "In the kitchen."
"How many branch phones does the estate boast?"
"There is a phone in each room."
"And these phones are all connected?"
"Connected?"
Didmore elaborated. "Is it possible for a person phoning in the kitchen to be overheard in the library or in one of the bedrooms?"
"Oh, yes."
"Are these phones, aside from the key phone, outside lines?"
"Yes."
"How do they operate?"
Mrs. Greely explained: "When a call comes through to the Manor, it is taken in the kitchen. Hawkins or myself transfer it to the proper party. Outgoing calls may be made on any of the phones."

"Thank you very much." The housekeeper returned to the witness bench.

This concluded the formalities. The jury, as was expected, pronounced a verdict of wilful murder in the case of Mrs. Horace T. Witherspoon, Sr.; in the case of Mrs. Horace T. Witherspoon, Jr., and in the case of Eliza Williams. The murderer was designated as a person or persons unknown.

"And now," said Mac, when the courtroom had cleared, "and now to business!" He sounded eager and excited. I wondered what rabbit he would pull from his hat this time. But he made no further comment. He stroked from the room. The last I saw of him he was hurrying down the corridor in Mrs. Greely's wake. I saw no more of him until evening.

It began to rain that night around seven o'clock. The rain beat in torrents against my windowpanes. I dined alone and tried to shut out the sound of the ceaseless, relentless downpour.
Ordinarily I am fond of rain. There is something soothing in it. This night, however, the steady drip, drip, drip of the drops to the ground oppressed and unnerved me. Its very steadfastness chilled me.

It was an all-night rain. It would go on and on—like—the murders and the mystery and—I forced myself to drink a second cup of coffee. I must get hold of myself. Madness lay in such thoughts. I lit a cigaret and leafed through the pages of a magazine, but the stories failed to hold my attention.

The house was terrifyingly silent for that early hour. Below dinner was being served; but the clatter of silver and china did not reach my quiet retreat. Later the guests would pack for departure. The inquest concluded, the police had no authority to detain them further. Tomorrow, Della Craig, Reginald Ainsworth and Jeffrey Todington would go their separate ways. Count Orsini would, of course, remain; but it was unlikely I would see him or the others again. Tomorrow I, too, would leave the Manor. Tomorrow Kitty would return.

A footstep sounded in the corridor; the door slowly opened. Mac McIntyre crept stealthily into the room.

"I've found them, Elsie," he whispered. He came close to me. In his outstretched hand he held a thin blue packet.

"Found what?" I queried, and he opened the packet. Inside was a thin sheaf of tissues.

"Where?" I demanded. But he shook his head and would not tell me.

"Never mind, Elsie. You'll find out in good time. Berson arrived yet?"

"No."
"Damn!" He consulted a battered nickel watch. "If he comes and I'm not here, hang on to him until I give the signal."

"The signal?" He was being mysterious.

He chuckled. "Curiosity killed a cat, girl! I'm expecting a visitor. Mind if I sit down and wait?"
"No."
"He sat down. Quiet descended. There was no sound in the room save the tick, tick, tick of the battered nickel watch and the pitter-patter of the rain. We waited. Waited for what? I did not know. We simply waited."

WARPLANES

IF the United States government were making and selling warplanes to France, that would be obviously improper and dangerous and should be stopped. It would tend to drag us into war.

When private industry is making and selling warplanes to France or any other friendly country that will not use them against our people or our national interests, it is hard to see that such action is improper or unwise. There is no law against it, national or international. And Americans who approve such action have two things to say in favor of it:

First, that it develops the American airplane industry, in a perilous time, to a point where it may soon supply our own government with all the modern military aircraft we may need.

Second, that it helps in a legitimate way to put free, friendly nations on a footing where they can protect themselves against possible aggression, and thus indirectly protect us.

Such private manufacture of war equipment for the foreign market would not be carried on, of course, without government permission. There has to be discretion used there. Obviously we do not want our government to sanction the private sale of war equipment to a nation that uses it against our national interests. For this reason our government stopped sanctioning the sale of warplanes to Japan, but continued sanctioning the sale of such equipment to China.

Most Americans believe today that it is to our interest to have France able to defend itself in the air.

PATRON OF MATRIMONY

WITH somewhat mixed feelings Americans read of the new Nazi wedding rules.

Every ceremony must be performed in front of a bust or portrait of the Fuehrer. The room must be adorned with the Swastika flag, the Reich seal, and flowers, and the presiding official must wear a brown robe trimmed with velvet.

The bride and groom must receive a copy of Hitler's "Mein Kampf", a pamphlet of advice to mothers and a year's subscription to a Nazi newspaper.

The dominant item in this matrimonial scene is the presence, by proxy, of Adolf Hitler, the celibate.

This is the age of "plastics". Nearly everything's going to be plastic except prices.

Some progressive citizens speak of Calvin Coolidge as a horse-and-buggy president. That isn't true. Cal rode a mechanical horse.

Something like this would happen just at a time when I had hoisted my algebra a full grade.

I wonder how long it will be, if ever, before folk realize that there is no more sense in a publisher giving away his newspaper space than there is in any other merchant giving away his merchandise? In one mail alone I received 27 requests for gifts of space to promote merchandise or events planned for the purpose of making money for others. Maybe most folk think that editors shouldn't live. Well, maybe they are right. Sometimes I also think so.

There goes Eddie Rothman, the merchant, who stays so close to his fine store that I see him only infrequently. And there goes Ralph Curtin whose ice business boom season is not so far away. Ed has done a great job as president and deserves the full thanks of every citizen. He has given ungrudgingly of his time, effort and money in order to help everyone. And anyone who thinks that office in the Chamber of Commerce does not take time just never has held such an office. Jim Smith has been a director of the Chamber of Commerce for several years, is thoroughly familiar with the work and undoubtedly will make a good president. My personal thanks to Ed for what he has done for the city and my personal thanks to Jim for what I know he will do.

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN.

ROOSEVELT LED INTO TRAP

WASHINGTON—In order to get full perspective regarding Roosevelt's recent press conference on international policy, it is necessary to go back to his message to Congress of January 4 and its effect on the Fascist-Nazi nations of Europe.

In Berlin and Rome that speech fell like a pall. German and Italian officials went around in a blue funk. To them the Roosevelt message to Congress meant that the United States would supply material to France and Britain in case of war.

That was exactly the reaction Roosevelt intended. For, beginning around Christmas, he had become convinced that war was sure to break in Europe this Spring and that there was only one possible chance of heading it off, namely by indicating to the Rome-Berlin axis that it would have to reckon with the raw material and munitions strength of the United States.

Roosevelt's idea, in other words, was that nations make war only when they can see immediate victory. With a long drawn out war in sight they think twice.

Today military strategists admit that any immediate European war would result in victory for Italy and German unless their opponents could get the material support of the United States, in which case the conflict probably would settle down to a long stalemate. Roosevelt's chief aim, therefore, has been to try to head off war by making the risk too great for Hitler and Mussolini.

NAZI PRESS

Immediate effects after January 4th appeared to be good. Rome and Berlin both were scared. Then the Nazi-Fascist controlled press got to work. They played up the anti-Semitic angle, claimed that Roosevelt had become the tool of Jewish bankers in New York, was pitching the USA into war at the behest of the Jews. Naturally the Nazis knew these reports would be cabled back to the American press.

Nazi papers headlined all the speeches of Representative Ham Fish, also of Senator Reynolds of North Carolina, who visited Berlin last summer. These eminent statesmen were played up to the German people as representative of the great American masses; Roosevelt as the tyrant. Later Senators Clark, Nye and Hiram Johnson became the great heroes of the Nazi-Fascist papers. This press play was partly for the purpose of making the German and Italian people believe they had nothing to worry about from the United States, partly for the effect upon the American public through reprints in the American press.

ROOSEVELT TRAPPED

Anyway, it had its effect. Shrewd Nazi maneuvering, plus senatorial fireworks, plus Roosevelt impulsiveness, led the President into the trap.

He has now put himself into the position of appearing to have contradicted himself on American foreign policy within one month. On January 4 he indicated that the United States would give material help to European democracies; on February 3 he said the United States had entered no alliances.

DIET AND HEALTH

Possible to Solve Problem of Disease

BY LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

FOUR OR five years ago my friend, Dr. Stuart Pritchard, told me when we met at a medical society meeting that he was going to retire from the active practice of medicine. I deprecated this because he was a brilliant diagnostician in diseases of the lungs, one of the foremost authorities on tuberculosis in the United States.

He replied that he had something bigger in mind. He had, he felt, in his work in life that far only been trying to drain a stagnant lake by taking an eye-dropper full of scummy water from its surface at a time.

Now he had an opportunity to show what a thoroughly planned engineering scheme would do to a stagnant human lake of disease and maladjustment. He said he probably would be criticized by the powers that were for violating certain principles in medical ethics, but he then consigned them to a place graphically described by a Signor Dante in a highly-praised little effusion published in the thirteenth century.

Banish Disease

What he was going to do, he said, was to show that disease and human suffering could be banished from the earth; or, at least, to make a more reasonable statement, reduced to a point where they could be discerned only by diligent search. I thought then, to put it mildly, that he was somewhat over-enthusiastic, but it appears he has made good.

What happened was that the W. K. Kellogg Foundation of Battle Creek, Michigan, donated enough money—$46,000,000—to demonstrate in seven counties in Michigan near Battle Creek, with a population of 220,000, that a thorough and well-directed program for medical care could approximate Dr. Pritchard's ideal.

Down Their Throats

Dr. Pritchard went at things in a rather autocratic manner. He just naturally forced health down the throats of that community. But he got results.

He established efficient, non-political health departments. All the children were examined and treated—free, most of the time—for whatever ailed them. The most modern scientific methods of handling the women in childbirth were introduced. All the new-born babies in that community were handled as if they had been the quintuplets; that is, in a thoroughly modern scientific manner.

Dr. Clendinging will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Proper immunization against diphtheria, smallpox, whooping cough, typhoid fever and goiter were instituted.

The conditions of living were made sanitary and doctors of public health took charge of sewerage and insect pests, water supply and other matters.

Schools Rebuilt

The schools were rebuilt or re-equipped so that they had sanitary toilets, electric lights, more sunshine, attention to the eyes, ears and bodies of the pupils. Most of all, the teachers were renovated, their preparation and education improved.

He must have had plenty of opposition to begin with. But he has finally convinced the hardest bunch of opposition of all—those he was trying to help. In a vote of these counties on the question of whether the people were willing to tax themselves 25 cents apiece to continue the work, they voted "Yes" almost unanimously.

What has been done there can be done all over the country. It proves that we can solve the problem of disease. We may not have made much progress in governing ourselves, or in eliminating the scourge of war, or in leveling human economic inequalities, but the fundamental source of happiness can be controlled.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Seven pamphlets by Dr. Clendinging can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin, for each, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendinging, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

But not, as a rule, if you have a hand which is as good defensively as you have so far shown and he has doubled vulnerable opponents when your side is not vulnerable. Fellowship Tea at M. E. Church Draws Hundred

Social Affair Highlight of Season

One of the outstanding social affairs of the church year was the Fellowship tea sponsored by the women of the Methodist Episcopal church Tuesday afternoon under the leadership of Mrs. C. F. Bowman, wife of the pastor. One hundred guests enjoyed the delightfully unique affair. The tea is one of the two major social events sponsored by the church women each year, the other being the Safari which comes in November.

Mrs. Bowman opened the afternoon program with a talk on the work of the eight boards of the church including the Home and Foreign Missionary societies. The monthly studies of the Foreign Missionary society for the year are based on "India" and the Home Missionary society is studying work of the church in the cities.

In the center of the social room was a large table which represented the church as the hub of the activities of world work. Mrs. Charles Gerhardt, president of the Foreign Missionary society for the last 14 years, was hostess at this table. Surrounding this were seven tables, on which were articles from the countries which they represented. At each table was hostess and her assistant. They had gathered the interesting exhibits which were the property of Circleville people. The things from South America were collected by Mrs. Adkins' daughter and Mrs. Pontius' son while on trips to that continent. Mrs. Abernethy's contributions to the China table were things sent to her by her daughter, the late Mrs. Charles Reeder, while a missionary in that country. Miss Renick's things were brought back by her after she completed her missionary work in Japan. 1000 Ways to Say "I LOVE YOU"

Sending a Valentine is an old custom which began simply . . . one just sent a little message of love or esteem. Then the Victorians got hold of it and there was a sharp rise in the lace paper and ribbon market.

But now, how that custom has expanded! The shops are filled with a bewildering array of lovely tokens, all designed to express that same old sentiment to some one on February 14th.

Of course you'd like to send "something different," but what? The more you walk around and look, the dizzier you get. Why not relax? Sit down and study the advertising pages of this newspaper. Here, you'll find the stores' own selections of the most appropriate gifts, and at prices to fit any purse.

Cupid only offered a message of three little words, but on these pages you'll find many ways to say "I Love You."

1000 Ways to Say "I LOVE YOU"

Sending a Valentine is an old custom which began simply . . . one just sent a little message of love or esteem. Then the Victorians got hold of it and there was a sharp rise in the lace paper and ribbon market.

But now, how that custom has expanded! The shops are filled with a bewildering array of lovely tokens, all designed to express that same old sentiment to some one on February 14th.

Of course you'd like to send "something different," but what? The more you walk around and look, the dizzier you get. Why not relax? Sit down and study the advertising pages of this newspaper. Here, you'll find the stores' own selections of the most appropriate gifts, and at prices to fit any purse.

Cupid only offered a message of three little words, but on these pages you'll find many ways to say "I Love You."

For your Valentine

Frankfort Easy For Red, Black

Circleville high cagers took Frankfort into camp with great ease Tuesday evening, the Red and Black combining a hard driving offensive with a brilliant passing attack to hold the invaders to a single field goal. Frankfort came to Circleville without three of its regulars, Brown, Schuster and Wright being ill.

Bayless, tall Negro forward, batted in a follow shot in the first period for Frankfort's lone bucket.

The Tigers led 10-3 at the end of the first period and 20 to 4 at halftime. The third quarter closed with the count at 33 to 8. Coach Roy Black used his reserve team during the entirety of the final period.

The Red and Black fired the ball around with real ability during the entire game, Tiger athletes being broken loose under the net many times.

The local reserves nearly duplicated the varsity score, the game ending 40-11, Coach Black using 17 youths against the invaders.

The games should prove to be a good warmup for the Washington C. H. invasion scheduled for Friday evening. The varsity game will be a homecoming for Warren Bumgarner, star Tiger guard, who performed with Washington C. H. last season and was elected to the captaincy this year before his family removed to Jackson township. Gene Mechling, who worked the Tiger-Arlington game last week, will handle the whistle for the Washington C. H. affray, the game being played in the Fayette county seat.

C. OF C. HEARS PLEA FOR PRESERVATION OF AMERICAN IDEALS

75 IN AUDIENCE AT BIG ANNUAL DINNER SESSION

Activity Report Disclosed By Secretary Mack Parrett

By Franklin Kibler
"Americans need have no worries about the future so long as the ideals of our ancestors are maintained," Dr. W. R. McChesney, president of Cedarville college, Green county, declared Tuesday night at the annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce.

His subject was "Cornerstones of Civilization." Seventy five members, their wives and friends attended the meeting, held in the American hotel coffee shop.

"It will be 100 years before we pay our national debt; longer if we have a war," he said. "We will meet it. European countries have been deeper in debt, had smaller areas and were less productive. We didn't turn the corner after the Civil War until the late eighties."

Five Cornerstones Cited

The five cornerstones outlined by the speaker as those of American advancement were the home, schools, free government, industry and religion. He urged that homes be kept American, schools be maintained to the highest degree, free government preserved, that industry follow the Golden Rule and freedom of religious beliefs preserved.

He recalled the defeat of Napoleon, victory at Gettysburg, and victories in the World War "by those who had the spirit of the Anglo-Saxons." "The Anglo-Saxon strain of blood has stood for many a day," he said. "The dreams of some writers who predict the downfall of the country will never come true as long as we follow ideals of our ancestors." "The world is armed at present as never before. If there are 1,000 wars across the sea it should be our desire to save our rights but not take part in the affray. America is a peace loving nation. Our army and navy are for national defense, not for invasion."

"You cannot find schools anywhere that compare with American schools. America is still the best of all countries of the world. Youth here has the greatest opportunities."

"Our government is still the government of the people and a dictator will never set foot in Washington so long as we maintain the ideals of the Constitution."

Many Guests Present

Dr. McChesney was introduced by W. E. Wallace, retiring president of the organization. Other guests introduced, who made brief remarks were W. H. Knepper, representative of Williams county, and William A. Mills, director of public relations of the Ohio Chamber of Commerce. James I. Smith, Jr., new president of the Chamber of Commerce, Carl Hunter, new vice president, and Mack Parrett, Jr., secretary-treasurer were introduced.

Mr. Parrett was highly praised by Mr. Wallace on his report of activities of the organization during the last year.

"We have tried, as usual to render a service to the community," Mr. Parrett said. "We are criticized for things that we do not do, but seldom are praised for the things we do. Much is expected of the Chamber of Commerce, but very few offer to help. Our membership is not large. It remains constant."

"We were again fortunate in having Mr. Wallace lead us for the third consecutive year. Ed has been a fine president and an inspiring leader.

"Our financial condition is excellent. We have money and certificates in the bank. With money in the treasury, we are always able to meet the demands for cash when the call comes for help and enough to take advantage of any good opportunity that might present itself for the betterment of the community."

Contributions Recalled

"We donated to the Boy Scouts, to the Pumpkin Show with a $75 float in the parade, to the D.A.R. for trail markers and the Christmas decorations. We gave flowers for the Elks Golden Jubilee and Ed Wallace's 27th business anniversary, to the Church of Christ on the 20th anniversary of its camp meeting, and for Mrs. B. Friedman, the mother of our famous Ted Lewis, a life member of our organization."

"We had many special meetings and fine speakers."

"We had a fine testimonial dinner for George F. Grand-Girard, commemorating his 60th anniversary in business conducted in the same room. We presented Mr. Grand-Girard with a bronze plaque and a life membership. He attends many of our meetings and always distributes his inexhaustible supply of chewing gum."

"We sponsored for several months the presentation of flowers, donated by Brehmer Greenhouses, to some of our prominent citizens who had done the most outstanding service to the community. We also sponsored Navy Day, Oct. 27, by having it observed in the city and county schools and displaying flags over the city."

"We have a committee working on a Pickaway county museum to collect and preserve the traditions, records, antiques and relics of our historical city and county. We made an effort to obtain a National Guard band for Circleville, but it was impossible to get it at this time."

Traffic Light Gained

"High officials were contacted and with continued effort by us and the splendid cooperation of editorials in The Herald, we finally secured a traffic light at the dangerous intersection of Routes 104 and 22."

"Repeated efforts were made to secure some new industries for Circleville, but to no avail. It seems as though they all want a cash bonus or to sell stock, or the gift of a building, and the local businessmen have put 'thumbs down' on all such propositions to date. We would welcome new industries, but I wonder if it wouldn't be more important to us if we would cooperate and assist industries already in our midst by helping them in their expansion."

programs and their industrial problems.

"We finally succeeded, by our continued efforts at three special meetings, in securing the improvement of Route 22, west of the river. Work has begun and is partially finished, but it has caused so much dissatisfaction and criticism that it seems it was not worth all the trouble to get it. If those traveling over this route and businessmen stop to think of the lasting benefit, it will be to future generations, they will realize the inconvenience for the time is offset by the future value to the county and city."

"We sponsored the Northwest Territory Celebration, so ably conducted by Judge Meeker Terwilliger and his efficient committees. Our organization worked untiringly to make this one of the most outstanding events in Circleville history. We helped entertain the 'Pioneers' and presented our own Billy Kellstadt with a new leather uniform. We treated the boys to many luxuries and our entry in the parade cost almost $100."

Pumpkin Show Aided

"Many meetings were devoted to the discussion of the Pumpkin Show before and after the 1938 show. A committee was appointed to assist the directors of 1938, but nothing constructive was accomplished. However, efforts to help were continued and the by-laws of the society were changed and six new directors added. With these additional businessmen on the board, we are hoping to have a really 'bigger and better' show in 1939. One that will be of more value to the business and professional men of Circleville and promote their business in the rural communities as was the original purpose of the Pumpkin Show."

"Another very important organization was effected; namely, the Pickaway County Business Council with a membership of 42 leading citizens of the community headed by Ray E. Rowland. The purpose of this council is to confer with our congressmen and state legislators about important legislation that concerns business and to express the council's views on these matters."

"Several meetings were devoted to the discussion of the city manager form of government with the idea of adopting it for Circleville. Professor Helms, of Ohio State University, an authority on this form of city government, was secured and spoke to us and explained both sides of the question. President Wallace appointed a committee to make recommendations, and we no doubt will hear from this committee early this year."

"We again assisted the Retail Merchants' association in the Christmas decoration program and also helped them in their 'Buck Passing' event. In cooperation with the retail merchants, we just succeeded in retaining the Pickaway county basketball tournament in Circleville, where it rightfully belongs. Our committee worked diligently and their efforts were rewarded with victory."

Colored movies of a fishing trip in Ontario and highlights of the 1938 Pumpkin Show were presented by T. E. Wilson, publisher of The Herald, as the concluding feature of the meeting."

LEEDS AND GARFIELD

Andrea Leeds and John Garfield, sensational screen discoveries of 1937 and 1938, have been signed to co-star in the two-part Silver Theatre production directed by Conrad Nagel, the first episode of which will be broadcast over WABC-Columbia network on Sunday, Feb. 12, at 6 p. m. The final chapter of the drama will be presented the following Sunday, February 19th.

Miss Leeds, whose Silver Theatre debut with Douglas Fairbanks, Jr. in 1937 marked her initial appearance in any radio drama, is at present making a hurried return from the East to rehearse for her second Silver Theatre engagement.

FORECLOSURE ASKED

Action for foreclosure based on a note for the original amount of $200, was filed in Common Pleas court Tuesday by Orien Taynor, 303 Dakota avenue, Columbus, against Wayne Stonerock, S. Court street, and others. The property involved is 2.27 acres in Wayne township.

KETTEMAN ESTATE

The will of J. E. Kettelman, Salt creek township, admitted to probate Tuesday, leaves his estate to his widow, Mrs. Hazel Kettelman. The estate is estimated at $2,000 in personal property and $6,000 in real estate.

MORE ALFALFA REQUIRED FOR FARMS OF OHIO

Alfalfa is the best, single legume, and it would be better for Ohio farmers if alfalfa were included in more rotation plans, Professor C. J. Willard, agronomy department, Ohio State university, declares.

Professor Willard says that alfalfa lasts longer than most legumes and that experiments have shown that corn following alfalfa in rotations yields more bushels per acre than when it follows red or sweet clover.

Alfalfa has not replaced red clover as a legume in Ohio, he says, because red clover will make a reasonable crop on soil low in lime but alfalfa does not grow well in acid soil. Red clover yields better in wet seasons than alfalfa but the exact opposite is true in dry years.

Farmers cannot predict the weather, so they should grow fields of both alfalfa and red clover and then no matter what happens, they will have hay. The ideal meadow mixture is alfalfa, red clover, timothy, and alsike. An alfalfa-clover mixture is better than an alfalfa-timothy or clover-timothy mixture.

THEATRES

AT THE CLIFTONA

The Cliftona Theatre takes pleasure in presenting, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's greatest motion picture, "David Copperfield." Heading the cast of 65 stars are such well known actors and actresses as W. C. Fields, Lionel Barrymore, Lewis Stone, Maureen O'Sullivan and Freddie Bartholomew. "David Copperfield" will be shown tonight and Thursday.

"Burn 'Em Up O'Connor," which starts Friday, a beautiful romance between a courageous racing driver and the daughter of his employer and best friend! It is a gripping murder mystery in which one ace driver after another meets violent death on the speedway. Until O'Keefe, at the risk of his own life, solves the mystery of the deaths of his pals in hair-raising automobile crashes!

"Trade Winds," which starts

Sunday, is a story of detective Frederic March's exciting but hectic job of chasing alluring Joan Bennett around the world. Ann Sothorn and Ralph Bellamy go along for a couple of reasons and the quartet falls heir to a series of very exciting situations.

AT THE GRAND

Jesse James, which opened Sunday at the Grand theatre, ends tomorrow night. The many people who have seen this picture state that they have never seen its equal.

The production given entirely in technicolor portrays the life, the love and the dangers of the outlaw, Jesse James. The picture by the same name stars Tyrone Power as Jesse James. Nancy Kelly, the screens forthcoming star, has the role of Jesse James' wife.

AT THE CIRCLE

Carole Lombard finally got the chance for which she was waiting—the opportunity to swing a right across to Frederic March's jaw.

Throughout the David O. Selznick technicolor comedy, "Nothing Sacred," the feature attraction at the Circle theatre, directed by William A. Wellman, Miss Lombard has been on the receiving end. She was kicked and punched in the hotel room fight scenes; she was pushed off a dock, shoved into a packing case and pulled beneath two wrestlers.

The return bout came with the shooting of a new scene, in which Miss Lombard, catching March unaware, swings once, and with finality.

"This," she said, as Director Wellman gave the call for action, "is indeed a pleasure."

C. OF C. HEARS PLEA FOR PRESERVATION OF AMERICAN IDEALS

75 IN AUDIENCE AT BIG ANNUAL DINNER SESSION

Activity Report Disclosed
By Secretary Mack
Parrett

By Franklin Kibler
"Americans need have no worries about the future so long as the ideals of our ancestors are maintained," Dr. W. R. McChesney, president of Cedarville college, Green county, declared Tuesday night at the annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce.

His subject was "Cornerstones of Civilization." Seventy five members, their wives and friends attended the meeting, held in the American hotel coffee shop.

"It will be 100 years before we pay our national debt; longer if we have a war," he said. "We will meet it. European countries have been deeper in debt, had smaller areas and were less productive. We didn't turn the corner after the Civil War until the late eighties."

Five Cornerstones Cited
The five cornerstones outlined by the speaker as those of American advancement were the home, schools, free government, industry and religion. He urged that homes be kept American, schools be maintained to the highest degree, free government preserved, that industry follow the Golden Rule and freedom of religious beliefs preserved.

He recalled the defeat of Napoleon, victory at Gettysburg, and victories in the World War "by those who had the spirit of the Anglo-Saxons." "The Anglo-Saxon strain of blood has stood for many a day," he said. "The dreams of some writers who predict the downfall of the country will never come true as long as we follow ideals of our ancestors."

"The world is armed at present as never before. If there are 1,000 wars across the sea it should be our desire to save our rights but not take part in the affray. America is a peace loving nation. Our army and navy are for national defense, not for invasion."

"You cannot find schools anywhere that compare with American schools. America is still the best of all countries of the world. Youth here has the greatest opportunities."

"Our government is still the government of the people and a dictator will never set foot in Washington so long as we maintain the ideals of the Constitution."

"When the Golden Rule is applied to business we will have no more strikes."

Many Guests Present
Dr. McChesney was introduced by W. E. Wallace, retiring president of the organization. Other guests introduced, who made brief remarks were W. H. Knepper, representative of Williams county, and William A. Mills, director of public relations of the Ohio Chamber of Commerce. James I. Smith, Jr., new president of the Chamber of Commerce, Carl Hunter, new vice president, and Mack Parrett, Jr., secretary-treasurer were introduced.

Mr. Parrett was highly praised by Mr. Wallace on his report of activities of the organization during the last year.

"We have tried, as usual to render a service to the community," Mr. Parrett said. "We are criticized for things that we do not do, but seldom are praised for the things we do. Much is expected of the Chamber of Commerce, but very few offer to help. Our membership is not large. It remains constant."

"We were again fortunate in having Mr. Wallace lead us for the third consecutive year. Ed has been a fine president and an inspiring leader.

"Our financial condition is excellent. We have money and certificates in the bank. With money in the treasury, we are always able to meet the demands for cash when the call comes for help and enough to take advantage of any good opportunity that might present itself for the betterment of the community."

Contributions Recalled

"We donated to the Boy Scouts, to the Pumpkin Show with a $75 float in the parade, to the D.A.R. for trail markers and the Christmas decorations. We gave flowers for the Elks Golden Jubilee and Ed Wallace's 27th business anniversary, to the Church of Christ on the 20th anniversary of its camp meeting, and for Mrs. B. Friedman, the mother of our famous Ted Lewis, a life member of our organization."

"We had many special meetings and fine speakers."

"We had a fine testimonial dinner for George F. Grand-Girard, commemorating his 60th anniversary in business conducted in the same room. We presented Mr. Grand-Girard with a bronze plaque and a life membership. He attends many of our meetings and always distributes his inexhaustible supply of chewing gum."

"We sponsored for several months the presentation of flowers, donated by Brehmer Greenhouses, to some of our prominent citizens who had done the most outstanding service to the community. We also sponsored Navy Day, Oct. 27, by having it observed in the city and county schools and displaying flags over the city."

"We have a committee working on a Pickaway county museum to collect and preserve the traditions, records, antiques and relics of our historical city and county. We made an effort to obtain a National Guard band for Circleville, but it was impossible to get it at this time."

Traffic Light Gained

"High officials were contacted and with continued effort by us and the splendid cooperation of editorials in The Herald, we finally secured a traffic light at the dangerous intersection of Routes 104 and 22."

"Repeated efforts were made to secure some new industries for Circleville, but to no avail. It seems as though they all want a cash bonus or to sell stock, or the gift of a building, and the local businessmen have put 'thumbs down' on all such propositions to date. We would welcome new industries, but I wonder if it wouldn't be more important to us if we would cooperate and assist industries already in our midst by helping them in their expansion."

programs and their industrial problems.

"We finally succeeded, by our continued efforts at three special meetings, in securing the improvement of Route 22, west of the river. Work has begun and is partially finished, but it has caused so much dissatisfaction and criticism that it seems it was not worth all the trouble to get it. If those traveling over this route and businessmen stop to think of the lasting benefit, it will be to future generations, they will realize the inconvenience for the time is offset by the future value to the county and city."

"We sponsored the Northwest Territory Celebration, so ably conducted by Judge Meeker Terwilliger and his efficient committees. Our organization worked untiringly to make this one of the most outstanding events in Circleville history. We helped entertain the 'Pioneers' and presented our own Billy Kellstadt with a new leather uniform. We treated the boys to many luxuries and our entry in the parade cost almost $100."

Pumpkin Show Aided

"Many meetings were devoted to the discussion of the Pumpkin Show before and after the 1938 show. A committee was appointed to assist the directors of 1938, but nothing constructive was accomplished. However, efforts to help were continued and the by-laws of the society were changed and six new directors added. With these additional businessmen on the board, we are hoping to have a really 'bigger and better' show in 1939. One that will be of more value to the business and professional men of Circleville and promote their business in the rural communities as was the original purpose of the Pumpkin Show."

"Another very important organization was effected; namely, the Pickaway County Business Council with a membership of 42 leading citizens of the community headed by Ray E. Rowland. The purpose of this council is to confer with our congressmen and state legislators about important legislation that concerns business and to express the council's views on these matters."

"Several meetings were devoted to the discussion of the city manager form of government with the idea of adopting it for Circleville. Professor Helms, of Ohio State university, an authority on this form of city government, was secured and spoke to us and explained both sides of the question. President Wallace appointed a committee to make recommendations, and we no doubt will hear from this committee early this year."

"We again assisted the Retail Merchants' association in the Christmas decoration program and also helped them in their 'Buck Passing' event. In cooperation with the retail merchants, we just succeeded in retaining the Pickaway county basketball tournament in Circleville, where it rightfully belongs. Our committee worked diligently and their efforts were rewarded with victory. Colored movies of a fishing trip in Ontario and highlights of the 1938 Pumpkin Show were presented by T. E. Wilson, publisher of The Herald, as the concluding feature of the meeting."
